Tutoring Experience

I have been tutoring IB Psychology and English for the past two years, helping students improve their performance in essays, assignments, and final exams. My background in psychology and my own IB experience allow me to relate to the stress students face, and I focus on providing practical support to guide them through these challenges.

In addition to IB subjects, I've worked with students preparing for A-Level and IGCSE exams, offering tailored assistance for subjects like Psychology and English. Whether students are struggling with TOK or refining their extended essays, my goal is to help them gain confidence and achieve academic success.
